Informattec founds spin-off Consilix for planning and simulation

Business intelligence specialist Informattec from Muttenz founds Consilix AG together with a team from its own ranks and industry manager Dr. Urs Bahn Müller. The core business of the new company is business planning and simulation with the enterprise performance management software Jedox.

Muttenz, 01.12.2020 – Alongside its core business of data Intelligence, Informattec has been developing business planning solutions based on Jedox for several years. During this time, the demands on professional planning solutions have risen sharply, which is also reflected in the complexity and increasing range of functions in Jedox planning software. In order to meet these developments and provide optimal benefits to customers, Informattec is spinning off its planning business with significant participation in the independent company Consilix AG at the beginning of 2021.

Consilix consists of an experienced team

The Consilix team consists of three experienced planning specialists who together have more than 10 years of expertise in planning and Jedox and are partners in the company. The CEO will be the experienced industry manager Dr. Urs Bahn Müller, who has comprehensive knowledge and mastery of integrated analysis, simulation and planning processes in companies from his own practical experience. From the Informattec team, Hennadiy Pinus will join Consilix as Senior Consultant and Data Architect and Felix Winterling as Lead Consultant and Solution Architect. Both of them are already looking after Informattec's Jedox customers, guaranteeing a smooth transition and continuity.

Focus on planning and simulation

Consilix focuses on the professionalisation, simplification and continuous improvement of planning and simulation processes in companies. Business processes and their interfaces to controlling are analysed and simplified where possible. Based on existing data, a digital business model is created that serves as the basis for customer-specific web applications. These can then be seamlessly integrated into the customer's existing IT landscape. To ensure the success of the project, Consilix significantly increases data quality and shortens the customer's planning cycles. In close cooperation with the partner company Informattec, both companies ensure the reporting and analysis with Qlik Sense, QlikView and PowerBI that go hand in hand with planning. Consilix serves demanding SME and enterprise customers from all industries.

"With the founding of Consilix, we at Informattec remain focused on Business Intelligence, while at the same time we are jointly bundling our in-depth know-how and proven expertise around professional business planning. This creates a win-win situation for us, for our customers and a real opportunity for the Consilix team", says Informattec CEO Rino Mentil, explaining the motivation for the spin-off. As Dr. Urs Bahn Müller, CEO of the new Consilix, explains: "The spin-off of the planning business from Informattec with a whole range of top-class customers is a unique opportunity for us. As a partner company of Informattec, we are also right at the pulse of the exciting and dynamic development of enterprise performance management and can offer synergies here. I am convinced that together we can generate the highest added value for our customers, with Consilix as a top specialist for planning and Informattec as a top specialist for business intelligence."
